

TAMACC's Educational Development Foundation Presents: High School Business Leadership Symposium

Wednesday, July 30, 2008

On Wednesday, July 30, 2008, the TAMACC and the University of Texas at Austin are sponsoring the third annual High School Business Leadership Seminars for high school students. The conference is free to students recommended by area high school counselors. Attendants will be limited to the first 100 students making reservations. Parents are welcomed to observe the seminars.

The objective of this conference is to encourage students to understand the importance of developing themselves as leaders in the community and in the business world. To accomplish this, the TAMACC and The University of Texas at Austin have invited role models in business, public service and education.

The conference will feature a competition between student teams. Teams will be given a business to develop. Student team presentation will address the business functions of Finance, Operations, and Sales & Marketing of a business to be announced at the competition. A medal will be awarded and announced at the TAMACC's convention.

For more information, talk to your High School counselor!

